

Photographic Images of Devon - Information & Prices

I love taking pictures, and for me Devon is a rich combination of both variety and beauty. Starting in 2003 with encouragement from my husband, (a long time photographer) I soon became enthralled at the possibilities offered by the Devon landscape. Whether it is a view of ancient Dartmoor, the magical coastline or of the hardworking farming landscape, my aim is always to capture an authentic essence of the view I see and the atmosphere that accompanies it.

In the framing of my photographs I have chosen the fine art method of giclée print on archival paper. This method produces beautifully soft and detailed images with a truly matt surface which allows light to bring the image itself to life.

The frames used are either solid Ash in soft white or the metal frames of Nielsen in black or silver. The mountboard is also in a neutral shade, which I feel allows the image to be seen at its best. All prints are framed with glass. Other sizes, styles of frame, mount board and non-reflective glass are available on request.

All the materials and methods I use are archival and gallery standard, ensuring both excellent quality and longevity. Please see overleaf for details of sizes and prices.

Thank you for your interest, Rachel Griffiths

All my images are suitable for office, board room and the home. Presentation prints, ideal for retirement, visiting colleagues or special occasions, can include appropriate inscriptions within the mount of the print.

Commissions for specific images can also be undertaken, please get in touch for further information.
